Section 1: Week 1 Orientation Report

1.1 Introduction:

The orientation session started with the recitation of the Holy Quran. We arrived on time but the sir informed us that the team coming from Karachi was running late and would be arriving shortly. After some time, they arrived, and the host welcomed everyone and introduced each team member one by one. After the introductions, they shared a few words with us and the orientation officially began.

1.2 Overview of the Orientation

During the orientation, we were introduced to Alkhidmat Foundation Pakistan and its mission. Since our orientation was held on Monday, which is a working day, the speakers appreciated the fact that there was still a huge turnout of both boys and girls.

Sir then asked us why we had joined this internship and what our expectations were. Different students shared their thoughts. Some said they wanted to contribute to society and become part of social welfare activities. Others said they wanted to gain experience through this internship, while a few students were already involved in volunteer work and wanted to continue serving the community.

After that, the speakers presented their slides and explained what the internship is about, why we were selected, what we would be doing over the next six weeks, and what we could expect to learn. At the end of the session, there was a Q&A session where students asked their questions and received answers.

1.3 Key Topics Covered

Topic 1: Why are we here???

One of the most memorable moments of the orientation was when the speaker showed a slide with the words "Best of the Best of the Best." He asked all of us to repeat it together, and everyone said it loudly with him. He explained that we were selected from many applicants because they believed we had the potential to contribute and make the most of this internship. This motivated us to take the opportunity seriously.

Topic 2: Value of This Opportunity

The speakers also reminded us that not everyone gets the opportunity to participate in programs like this. They encouraged us, as the youth of Pakistan, to use our skills and energy to serve society and contribute to meaningful causes. They also mentioned that students from different educational backgrounds have different strengths, and throughout the internship they will try to assign work according to each person's skills and expertise.

Topic 3: Internship Structure and Grading

The speakers explained that the internship is a 6-week hybrid program, with approximately 80% online activities and 20% physical activities. Every week, we will receive one assignment or project worth 10 marks, making a total of 60 marks. To successfully complete the internship, we must score at least 35 out of 60.

Topic 4: Physical Activities and Field Visits

The physical part of the internship may include field visits related to our area of interest or academic background. For example, students from medical fields may get the opportunity to visit an Alkhidmat hospital, while students from IT or technology backgrounds may visit Bano Qabil Labs or other relevant departments. The purpose is to provide practical exposure according to each intern's expertise.

1.4 My Learnings

From this orientation, I learned that we should always try to give our best in whatever responsibility we are given. I also understood the importance of teamwork, volunteering, and using our skills to help society. The session motivated me to stay committed throughout the internship and make the most of this opportunity.

1.5 My Reflections

Overall, my experience of the orientation was very good. I think it is great that Alkhidmat Foundation is providing opportunities like this for students. At this stage, we don't often get the chance to participate in social internships like this. Along with serving the community, I believe this internship will also help us improve our communication, teamwork, leadership, and other soft skills. Hopefully, in the future we will also get opportunities to contribute using our technical and professional skills.

I really appreciate that such activities are being organized in Hyderabad, and I encourage other students to participate whenever they get the chance. I also hope that more organizations will arrange similar opportunities for students. I am looking forward to learning new things, improving myself, and making the most of this internship.

Section 2: Assignment 1 – Research Project

Impact of Social Organizations in Pakistan

2.1 Introduction

Social organizations play an important role in the development of any country. In Pakistan, these organizations work alongside communities and government institutions to help people in need and improve their quality of life. They provide support in many areas such as education, healthcare, disaster relief, orphan care, clean water, vocational training, environmental sustainability, and poverty reduction.

Many people in Pakistan rely on social organizations during difficult times, especially after natural disasters or financial hardships. These organizations not only provide immediate help but also work on long-term projects that empower individuals and strengthen communities.

This research highlights the role and importance of social organizations in Pakistan. It discusses the contributions of some of the country's leading nonprofit organizations, with a special focus on Alkhidmat Foundation Pakistan, its programs, volunteer efforts, and the positive impact it has made across the country.

2.2 What are Social Organizations?

Social organizations are nonprofit organizations that work for the welfare and development of society. Their main purpose is to help people in need and improve the quality of life of individuals and communities without focusing on making a profit.

In Pakistan, social organizations play an important role by supporting people who are facing poverty, unemployment, health issues, lack of education, or the effects of natural disasters. They work with the help of donations, volunteers, and community support to provide assistance where it is needed the most.

These organizations carry out various activities, including providing free healthcare, educational support, disaster relief, clean drinking water, orphan care, vocational training, and financial assistance for deserving families. They also organize awareness campaigns and encourage people, especially young volunteers, to participate in community service.

Overall, social organizations help build a stronger, more caring, and more responsible society by supporting those in need and creating opportunities for people to improve their lives.

2.3 Role of Social Organizations in Pakistan

Social organizations play a vital role in the development and welfare of Pakistan. They work alongside government institutions to support communities and provide services to people who may not have easy access to basic facilities. Their efforts help improve the lives of millions of people across the country.

One of their main roles is to provide quality education through schools, scholarships, and vocational training programs. They also offer healthcare services such as free medical camps, hospitals, blood donation drives, and financial assistance for patients who cannot afford treatment.

During natural disasters such as floods, earthquakes, and other emergencies, social organizations provide immediate relief by distributing food, clean drinking water, medicines, clothing, and temporary shelter. Their quick response helps affected families recover during difficult times.

Many organizations also work to reduce poverty by providing interest-free loans, skill development programs, and employment opportunities. These initiatives help individuals become financially independent and improve their standard of living.

In addition, social organizations promote environmental sustainability by organizing tree plantation campaigns, cleanliness drives, and awareness programs about protecting natural resources. They also encourage volunteerism, especially among young people, so that more individuals can actively contribute to building a better society.

Overall, social organizations are making a significant contribution to Pakistan by supporting communities, promoting social welfare, and creating positive change in different sectors of society.

2.4 Major Areas of Work

Social organizations in Pakistan work in many different fields to improve the lives of people and support communities. Some of their major areas of work are discussed below:

1. Education

Many social organizations establish schools, provide scholarships, distribute educational materials, and offer vocational training programs. Their goal is to ensure that children and young people, especially those from underprivileged backgrounds, have access to quality education and skill development.

2. Healthcare

Healthcare is one of the most important areas where social organizations contribute. They provide free or low-cost medical treatment, organize medical camps, blood donation drives, eye camps, and support patients who cannot afford healthcare expenses.

3. Disaster Relief

During natural disasters such as floods, earthquakes, and other emergencies, social organizations provide immediate relief by distributing food, clean drinking water, medicines, clothing, and temporary shelter. They also help affected families during the rehabilitation and recovery process.

4. Poverty Alleviation and Entrepreneurship

To reduce poverty, many organizations provide interest-free loans, financial assistance, vocational training, and entrepreneurship programs. These initiatives help people start small businesses, earn a stable income, and become financially independent.

5. Orphan Care and Social Welfare

Several organizations support orphaned and vulnerable children by providing education, healthcare, shelter, food, and financial support. They also assist widows, senior citizens, and families facing financial difficulties.

6. Environmental Sustainability

Many social organizations organize tree plantation campaigns, cleanliness drives, waste management initiatives, and awareness programs to encourage environmental protection and promote a cleaner and healthier Pakistan.

7. Community Development and Volunteerism

Social organizations encourage people, especially students and young professionals, to participate in volunteer activities. Through community service projects, awareness campaigns, and social initiatives, volunteers develop leadership skills while making a positive impact on society.

2.5 Major Social Organizations in Pakistan

Pakistan is home to many nonprofit organizations that work for the welfare and development of society. These organizations provide valuable services in areas such as education, healthcare, disaster relief, poverty reduction, and community development. Some of the leading social organizations in Pakistan are discussed below.

1. Alkhidmat Foundation Pakistan

Alkhidmat Foundation Pakistan is one of the country's leading nonprofit organizations, dedicated to serving humanity without discrimination. It works in various sectors, including healthcare, education, orphan care, disaster management, clean water, microfinance, and community services. The organization operates across Pakistan through a large network of volunteers and regional offices. A detailed overview of Alkhidmat Foundation Pakistan is provided in the next section of this report.

2. Edhi Foundation

Edhi Foundation is one of the largest and most respected charitable organizations in Pakistan. Founded by Abdul Sattar Edhi, the organization is well known for its ambulance service, orphanages, shelters, hospitals, blood banks, and relief services. For many years, it has helped millions of people regardless of their religion, background, or financial status.

3. Saylani Welfare International Trust

Saylani Welfare International Trust works to improve the lives of underprivileged communities through free education, healthcare, food distribution, vocational training, and IT education programs. Its initiatives, such as free technical training and skill development, have helped many young people build successful careers and improve their future.

4. Akhuwat Foundation

Akhuwat Foundation is widely recognized for providing interest-free loans to individuals who want to start or expand small businesses. Along with financial support, it also works in education, healthcare, social welfare, and community development. Its mission is to reduce poverty by helping people become financially independent through dignity and trust.

2.6 How These Organizations Support Society

Social organizations in Pakistan play an important role in improving the lives of people by providing support in different sectors. Their efforts help individuals, families, and communities overcome challenges and build a better future.

1. Supporting Underprivileged Communities

Many families in Pakistan face financial difficulties and lack access to basic necessities. Social organizations provide food, clothing, clean drinking water, financial assistance, and shelter to help improve their living conditions. They also arrange ration distribution and support families during times of crisis.

2. Women Empowerment and Youth Entrepreneurship

Many organizations organize skill development programs, vocational training, and entrepreneurship initiatives for women and young people. These programs help them learn new skills, start small businesses, find employment opportunities, and become financially independent.

3. Healthcare and Disaster Relief

Social organizations provide free or affordable healthcare services through hospitals, medical camps, ambulance services, blood donation campaigns, and financial support for patients. During natural disasters such as floods and earthquakes, they quickly respond by providing food, clean water, medicines, temporary shelter, and rehabilitation support to affected families.

4. Education and Vocational Training

Education is one of the main priorities of many nonprofit organizations. They establish schools, provide scholarships, distribute educational materials, and offer vocational and technical training programs. These initiatives help students gain knowledge and practical skills that improve their future career opportunities.

5. Environmental Sustainability

Many organizations also work to protect the environment by organizing tree plantation drives, cleanliness campaigns, waste management initiatives, and awareness programs. These activities encourage communities to keep their surroundings clean and protect natural resources for future generations.

Overall, social organizations continue to make a positive impact by supporting people in need, promoting education and healthcare, encouraging entrepreneurship, responding to emergencies, and contributing to the long-term development of Pakistan.

2.7 Focused Section: Alkhidmat Foundation Pakistan

History and Vision

Alkhidmat Foundation Pakistan is one of the country's leading nonprofit and humanitarian organizations, dedicated to serving humanity without discrimination. The organization traces its roots back to 1976, when it started as a volunteer-led welfare initiative in Karachi. Over the years, it expanded its humanitarian work across Pakistan and became one of the country's most trusted nonprofit organizations. Today, Alkhidmat serves millions of people through a nationwide network of regional offices, volunteers, healthcare facilities, educational institutions, and welfare programs. Its vision, "Service to Humanity with Integrity," reflects its commitment to helping vulnerable communities with honesty, compassion, transparency, and dedication.

Core Departments and Programs

Alkhidmat Foundation works through several specialized departments to provide long-term support to communities across Pakistan.

Health Services:

Alkhidmat operates hospitals, clinics, medical centers, diagnostic laboratories, ambulance services, blood banks, and free medical camps. The organization also provides financial assistance for surgeries, medicines, and treatment to deserving patients.

Education:

The education program aims to provide quality education through schools, scholarships, educational support, and teacher development. It also focuses on improving access to education for children from underprivileged families.

Orphan Care Program:

Through its Orphan Care Program and Aghosh Homes, Alkhidmat provides orphaned children with education, healthcare, accommodation, food, and personal development opportunities so they can build a better future.

WASH (Water, Sanitation and Hygiene):

Alkhidmat's WASH program provides safe drinking water by installing hand pumps, water filtration plants, solar-powered water systems, and sanitation facilities in underserved communities. The program also promotes hygiene awareness to improve public health.

Islamic Microfinance (Mawakhat):

The organization provides interest-free financial assistance to deserving individuals, helping them establish or expand small businesses. This initiative promotes self-reliance and reduces poverty by creating sustainable sources of income.

Disaster Management:

Alkhidmat is well known for its rapid response during natural disasters such as floods, earthquakes, and other emergencies. It provides emergency food, clean water, medical aid, temporary shelter, rescue services, and rehabilitation support to affected communities.

Community Services:

The organization also runs food distribution programs, Ramadan ration drives, Qurbani projects, winter relief campaigns, and other welfare initiatives to support deserving families throughout the year.

Bano Qabil – Empowering Pakistan's Youth

One of Alkhidmat Foundation's most successful recent initiatives is Bano Qabil, a flagship youth empowerment program launched in 2022. The program provides completely free IT and professional training to talented students across Pakistan, especially those who cannot afford expensive technical education.

Bano Qabil offers training in modern and in-demand fields such as Artificial Intelligence (AI), Data Science, Web Development, Mobile App Development, Cybersecurity, Digital Marketing, Graphic Design, DevOps, E-commerce, Freelancing, and many other technology-related courses. Along with technical education, students also receive mentorship, career guidance, and opportunities to prepare for employment and freelancing.

The initiative has expanded to multiple cities across Pakistan and has already enabled more than 100,000 students to graduate, making it one of the country's largest free IT skills programs. Through Bano Qabil, Alkhidmat is helping young people become financially independent while contributing to Pakistan's growing digital economy.

Volunteerism and Youth Engagement

Volunteerism is one of the strongest pillars of Alkhidmat Foundation. Thousands of volunteers, including students, professionals, doctors, engineers, teachers, and social workers, actively participate in its welfare activities. Volunteers contribute to disaster relief operations, medical camps, educational programs, awareness campaigns, food distribution drives, and community development projects.

Programs like the Alkhidmat Summer Internship encourage students to develop leadership, communication, teamwork, and problem-solving skills while serving society. These opportunities also help young people understand social issues and become responsible members of their communities.

Humanitarian Work in Pakistan and Beyond

Although Alkhidmat's primary focus is serving communities across Pakistan, the organization has also extended humanitarian assistance internationally. It has provided emergency relief, food, medical aid, shelter, and rehabilitation support to people affected by crises in countries such as Palestine (Gaza), Türkiye, Afghanistan, Bangladesh, and Sudan. These efforts demonstrate Alkhidmat's commitment to serving humanity wherever help is needed.

Key Achievements and Impact

Over the years, Alkhidmat Foundation has made a remarkable contribution to humanitarian services in Pakistan. Some of its major achievements include:

- Serving millions of beneficiaries across Pakistan every year through healthcare, education, disaster management, and community welfare programs.
- Operating hospitals, clinics, ambulance services, medical camps, and diagnostic facilities to provide quality healthcare.
- Supporting thousands of orphan children through education, healthcare, and residential care programs.
- Completing thousands of clean water and sanitation projects to improve access to safe drinking water.
- Providing interest-free microfinance to help deserving families become financially independent.
- Expanding the Bano Qabil initiative to train the next generation in modern IT and digital skills.
- Mobilizing thousands of volunteers who actively participate in humanitarian and community service projects throughout the country.

These achievements highlight Alkhidmat Foundation's continuous efforts to improve lives, reduce poverty, empower youth, and strengthen communities through sustainable development and humanitarian service.

2.8 Conclusion

Social organizations play a vital role in the development and welfare of Pakistan by supporting communities in areas such as education, healthcare, disaster relief, poverty alleviation, orphan care, clean water, and environmental sustainability. Their efforts help improve the quality of life of millions of people and create opportunities for individuals to become self-reliant.

Among these organizations, Alkhidmat Foundation Pakistan stands out because of its wide range of humanitarian programs, dedicated volunteers, and commitment to serving humanity without discrimination. Through initiatives such as healthcare services, education, WASH, Islamic Microfinance, disaster management, orphan care, and the recently launched Bano Qabil program, Alkhidmat continues to make a positive impact on communities across Pakistan and beyond.

This research has helped me understand the importance of social organizations and the role they play in solving social challenges. It has also increased my appreciation for volunteer work and community service. As an intern at Alkhidmat Foundation, I look forward to learning from experienced professionals, contributing to meaningful projects, and using my knowledge and skills to serve society. I hope this internship will help me grow both personally and professionally while allowing me to make a positive contribution to my community.
